Syniverse appoints Bill Corbin head of indirect markets and strategic partnerships

*Technology veteran brings wealth of experience to lead
Syniverse's global ecosystem of channels, alliances and partners*

TAMPA, Fla. – March 13, 2019 – Syniverse announced today it has appointed technology sales and management executive Bill Corbin as senior vice president of indirect markets and strategic partnerships, effective immediately. Corbin brings extensive senior-level expertise that will lead and grow Syniverse's portfolio of global strategic sales assets through channels, alliances and partnerships. He will report to Syniverse CEO and President Dean Douglas.

Prior to Syniverse, Corbin served as senior vice president of indirect markets for 8x8, a global provider of cloud, voice, video, collaboration and contact center communication solutions for enterprises. Throughout his 30-year career, he has held senior-level positions with CenturyLink, Westcon, Redcard Solutions, Network Catalyst and NVision.

"Bill has a deep appreciation of the needs of indirect markets and partners as well as the strategic strength we can gain through channels, alliances and partnerships," said Douglas. "I am excited to welcome Bill to Syniverse and have him lead our team that will work with existing and new indirect markets and partners to profitably address market opportunities."

During his career, Bill has established a track record of success in indirect markets, channels, and partnerships for information technology solutions through a variety of companies, including Fortune 150, multinational, domestic, and startup companies.

"I am delighted to join Syniverse and help drive growth through our relationships with channels, alliances and partnerships around the world," said Corbin. "I look forward to helping Syniverse reimagine the possibilities of what a strong indirect market and partner ecosystem capability can bring to our business, our customers and our markets."

Corbin is based at Syniverse's global headquarters in Tampa, Florida.
